Amount of Necessary Bill Not Determined, Executive Tells in Confab

INFLATION CONTEST ON

All Money Voted Would Be Replacement and Not New Levies, He States

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—A bitter congressional battle over inflationary measures to ward off new tax legislation appeared likely today in the face of administration study of revenue measures to finance the bonus and the new farm program.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—There will have to be a tax bill at this session of congress, President Roosevelt said today.

As to the amount, the tax bill will recommend, Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment, pointing out that the situation still was under study.

He made it clear that obviously if the farm bill passes it will have to be paid from substitute taxes.

In this connection he explained that substitute taxes replacing those outlawed by the courts or repealed by congress did not necessarily constitute new taxes.

He added that this characterization involved a fine point of English, remarking that new taxes, even though substitutes, carried the connotation in some minds of additional levies.

Bonus Causes Question

As he emphasized that the whole tax question was still in the study stage, the president remarked that methods of financing the bonus still were under study.

Reminded that suggestions had

OVER 3 MILLIONS AID OBSERVANCE OF F.D.R. HOLIDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Preliminary reports from over the nation indicated today that more than 3,000,000 persons attended birthday parties last night for President Roosevelt.

At 7,000 or more hotels and in many clubs and private homes dancers gathered to contribute to the aid of sufferers from infantile paralysis. Contributions were expected to total $1,500,000 or more.

In Washington politics were forgotten as Republicans and Democrats joined in six huge parties attended by 10,000 persons. It was one of the gayest occasions of the year.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Ginger Rogers, film star, divided their time between the six hotels where the dances were held. Wherever she went Mrs. Roosevelt was greeted by two songs—"Happy Birthday to You," and "Happy Days Are Here Again."

President Roosevelt, observing his 54th birthday, gathered his old cronies of past years about him at the White House for a dinner party and reminiscing afterward in the president's "den."

Mrs. John Law carried her crippled daughter, Gertrude, from their burning home to a neighbor's house. Both were clad in their night clothing. Their home was destroyed.

Mrs. Law started downstairs early today to get a drink of water for her daughter. She tripped over their pet cat, a lamp fell from her hand, and started the fire.

STATE WITNESS IN JERSEY CASE MAY FACE JURY

Fisher, Bruno's Counsel Seeks Perjury Charges Against Hochmuth

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Attorneys for Bruno Richard Hauptmann sought an indictment of a major state witness on perjury charges today, while Gov. Harold G. Hoffman demanded an answer to his charges that "many persons" want Hauptmann dead for sinister reasons.

Col. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief of state police whom Hoffman ordered yesterday to completely reopen his investigation of the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby, announced he would confer in Trenton today with Attorney General David T. Wilentz, Hauptmann's prosecutor.

Both men, accused by unmistakable inference of dropping the case half solved, refused to reply until they conferred.

Fisher Demands Inquiry

While the governor launched his fight for Hauptmann, whom he reprieved from death for 30 days two weeks ago, the Bronx carpenter's attorneys attacked on another front. C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of Hauptmann's counsel, mailed a demand last night to Anthony M. Hauck, Hunterdon - co. that a grand jury investigate testimony given in Hauptmann's trial by Amandus Hochmuth, 80.

Hochmuth lives near the Lindbergh estate at Hopewell from which Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.,

PLOT REPORTED CITY MAY SEEK IN LOEB DEATH BORAH ADDRESS

State's Attorney to Re-Question Day, Young Killer Republican Leaders to Act; Senator May Tour Ohio

JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Belief that Richard Loeb was slashed to death by a fellow convict as the result of a deliberate plot was expressed today by State's Attorney Will R. McCabe.

As the prosecutor sought the "true story" behind the killing of one of the slayers of Bobby Franks, increased demands were made for a cleanup of a prison scandal that may have wide political ramifications.

The scandal was seen as a possible factor in the re-election of Gov. Henry Horner, Democrat opposed for renomination by the powerful Chicago Democratic organization. Horner contends that charges of favoritism shown influential prisoners are untrue and that Joseph Ragen, recently named head of Joliet prison, is a "perfect ward."

Prosecutor McCabe advanced the theory that unnamed persons "may have been interested in having Loeb killed." He planned to re-question James Day, slight, 23-year-old convict who has maintained silence since his arrest.

Squad Car Called to Catch Porker

DETROIT, Jan. 31.—(UP)—The 200-pound porker was not greased. Nevertheless, it ran two youths and two policemen ragged for a half-hour last night and a squad car finally had to be called to get the pig to market.

The hog was back with its owners, the Hygrade Food and Products company, today and well on its way to pork chops, smoked ham and bacon. Its brief moments of freedom were not without excitement. To begin with, the porker—"one of our best," the company said—slipped through a hole in the wall and headed into the night and traffic on busy Michigan avenue.

GOVERNOR SIGNS RELIEF MEASURE, APPOINTS BOARD

Davey Says Bill to Aid Needy is "Atrocious Piece of Legislation"

THINKS OF SUFFERERS

Woman from Toledo One of Members of New Ohio Commission

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Governor Davey today signed the $11,500,000 relief bill, appointed members of the newly-created state relief commission, and denounced the bill as "the most atrocious piece of legislation I have ever seen."

"It ought to be disapproved and this would be done except for the fact that many innocent people might suffer," he said.

The members of the commission are Judge Roy L. Wildermuth, Columbus, and Frank Kleinhenz, Cleveland, Democrats; and Mrs. E. S. Kiplinger, Toledo, and Gomer Jones, Gallipolis, Republicans. Jones is not the Ohio State football player by the same name.

"The bill has some points of merit, of course; but never in the nine years I served in congress nor the 12 months here have I seen a bill so poorly constructed nor so badly thought out," the governor said.

Ignores Relief Needs

He charged the bill ignores the relief needs of the respective counties, provides that counties shall receive money whether they need it or not, and will consequently exhaust available funds more rapidly than necessary.

Of the $11,500,000 appropriated, $3,000,000 is placed in a rotary fund for loans to counties to be repaid.

Threshers Forget Cold, Separate Updyke's Crop

Wheat, Ear Muffs and Heavy Gloves Provide Rare Combination in Pickaway-Co; 600 Bushels Obtained

By FRANKLIN KIBLER

Wheat threshing and ear muffs! They'll finish threshing at Orren Updyke's farm this afternoon unless another sub-zero wave arrives suddenly and blows too much straw in their faces.

We doubted it, too, but facts are facts and Mr. Updyke is threshing his last summer wheat crop with the temperature hovering near the zero line.

Ear muffs, overcoats and threshing have never joined hands in this county before, but Mr. Updyke had a perfectly good explanation for his threshing activities.

Halted by Rainfall

Last summer when the separator arrived at his farm the long rainy season started. When the wheat finally dried he put it in three ricks back of his barn. Before the heavy snow melts and while the straw is dry he decided to thresh.

The separator owned by Porter and Wayne Martin was moved to the Updyke farm Wednesday afternoon and the threshing started Thursday morning. During the seven hours the rig was in operation Thursday it turned out 600 bushels of grain.

Dinner for Seven

Mrs. Updyke cooked dinner for eleven "harvest hands" Thursday and Friday noons.

The boys didn't throw water like they do in the summer time. Neither did they scrap over who was first at the wash pan and comb for fear someone would suffer frost-bite.

20 CONVICTS DIE IN FLAMING CAR

Alabama Governor Sends Two to Probe Tragedy

SCOTTSBORO, Ala., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Twenty Alabama convicts, all negroes, were burned to death in a convict truck near here today.

The tragedy occurred when a fire the negroes had recklessly built inside the truck to warm themselves spread to a 30-gallon gasoline drum, resulting in an explosion.

Two negroes leaped through the rapidly spreading flames and were carried in an apparently dying condition to a hospital.

There were twenty-two negroes and two white guards on the truck, which was enroute from here to a spot on the Lee highway, some three miles out of town, for construction work.

The two guards were said to have escaped. The gasoline drum from which the inflammable fluid slopped had been loaded onto the truck just inside the rear door. The fire the negroes had kindled was in the front part of the truck.

A stretch of icy road was reached. The truck skidded, not dangerously, but just enough to stop the gasoline. Fire immediately enveloped the interior of the truck, trapping the twenty-two negroes.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Governor Bibb Graves today ordered two high state officials to conduct a complete investigation of the fatal burning of twenty negro convicts. He sent Hamp Draper, head of the state convict department, and Arthur Houton, of the state highway commission.

DEAD, 32 AS TRAIN KIPS OFF RAIL

Speeding Passenger Train
Wrecked Near Sunbury, Pa.;
Two Victims Employes

SUNBURY, Pa., Jan. 31—(UP)—A speeding passenger train leaped its rails late last night and plunged from an over-pass onto a highway, killing three and injuring 32. No person on the train escaped hurt.

Wreckage was scattered along the highway for 50 yards and it was hours before rescue crews from Sunbury had carried all the injured to hospitals. The accident ended a period of more than a year during which American railroads had operated without losing the life of a passenger.

The dead were:
Dr. Guy Rothfuss, 32, Williamsport, brother of Dr. Paul Rothfuss, deputy secretary of health for Pennsylvania.

Engineer William Rainp, Tamaqua, Pa.
Fireman Washington Danshaw, Tamaqua.

12 Students Abroad
The train was the "Williamsporter," a Reading limited, enroute from Williamsport to New York City. Its 28 passengers included 12 students of Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa., enroute to their homes for brief vacations.

Only one of the passengers was badly hurt. Physicians feared that Mrs. Cora Bromell, Williamsport, would die of internal injuries.

The train was approaching the Susquehanna river bridge leading into Sunbury. Rounding a sharp curve over a highway, the engine and tender jumped from the rails and plunged down onto the highway pulling a mail and baggage car, two passenger coaches, and two refrigerator cars after it.

Dr. Rothfuss, riding in the first passenger coach, was enroute to New York to resume post graduate studies in Bellevue hospital. His neck was broken.

Engineer Crushed
Engineer Ramp was crushed in the wreckage. Fireman Danshaw died several hours after being taken to a Sunbury hospital. His legs had been punctured. Both and the engineer were badly mangled by the steam when the locomotive exploded.

The highway over-pass was wrecked utterly and engineers estimated it would be weeks before it could be repaired. The rails were tipped up for hundreds of feet. The locomotive, its tender, and the coaches, were smashed. Physicians believed that many of the passengers escaped with their lives by luck alone.

Railroad authorities could establish no cause for the accident. Some passengers suggested that the engineer might have been traveling at excessive speed on the sharp curve.

HERE ARE THE REAL FACTS ABOUT BRAN

Brought Out by Tests with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Some years ago, there was considerable difference of opinion regarding the use of bran. So to discover the actual facts of the case, the Kellogg Company asked for a series of laboratory tests at leading universities.

Experimental studies on a group of healthy women showed that the continued use of bran was thoroughly satisfactory. Unlike cathartics, it did not lose its effect.

Other independent tests on men indicated that, with certain people, the "bulk" in bran was more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Laboratory analysis proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplied vitamin B and iron as well as plenty of bulk. This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action. It absorbs a great deal of moisture, and cleanses the intestinal tract.

ALL-BRAN corrects constipation due to insufficient "bulk." It is the natural way—far better than using pills and tablets.

Serve as a cereal—or use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Fifteen more years of co-operative education and American Farmers will be able to settle their own problems," V. L. Everson of Indianapolis, a pioneer of co-operative enterprises, told members in his address on "Building Successful Co-Operatives."

Salesman-Patron
"Success is received through education and we solve our problems when we get into the business," Mr. Everson said. "When you become interested in co-operatives you become a salesman as well as a patron. You educate your neighbor and get him to accept your views and sell him on your ideas."

"Farmers will not be defeated if they stick together and carry out their programs instead of partially putting them across. Our present problem will never be solved by agriculture alone but it must be replaced by permanent legislation or the basic industry of this country is going to die. Thank goodness for the hypodermic the AAA gave us. It is co-operation in the church, business and labor that brings relief to the rank and file of the country."

Several financial statements on the business handled by co-op creameries in Indiana were read by Mr. Everson to show the rapid strides made in that state by farmer-controlled enterprises. He related one incident in which the price of butterfat raised four cents a pound the day a "co-op" creamery opened. At present seven creameries are in operation in the state using 79 bulk plants.

The speaker highly complimented members and officers of the local associations on their success in the operation of co-op enterprises. He predicted farmers in the near future will be able to purchase their farm machinery on a "co-op" basis. "And your going to buy it down low, too," he added. "You must all be satisfied with the same machinery and not try to outdo your neighbor and the plan will be a success."

Host in Indianapolis
Mr. Everson told a number of interesting stories to emphasize his points and kept the huge crowd cheering his remarks. Last year a number of local officials made a trip through middle western states studying co-operative organizations and Mr. Everson spent his host in Indianapolis.

Perry L. Green, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, outlined the three national plans now under consideration to supplant the AAA and the income tax plan being advanced in the state. The national plans are: payment of outstanding contracts, land conservation program, and managed currency.

"Let's think this thing through without the help of political parties," he said. "I hope the Democrats do not take the speech of Al Smith too seriously and the Republicans use the same principle on the speeches of Herbert Hoover." The speaker termed Pickaway-co farmer "aristocrats of the soil."

F. K. Blair, county extension agent, gave a brief address at the opening of the afternoon session urging members to interest younger residents in the advantages of the Farm Bureau. His address was directed largely at the senior 4-H club groups and the F. F. A.

Musical features of the program were presented by Miss Betty Scothorn, and Mrs. Harold Hines, violinists, Mrs. Martin Cromley, pianist, and the Imperial Negro quartet of station WATU, Columbus. The radio group presented a series of numbers in the variations made famous by the Mills Brothers. Mrs. A. W. Marion was director of the group singing.

Oddities in Nation's News

HIRE SOCIETY SECRETARY
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 31—(UP)—Fearing the encroachment of a Coney island atmosphere, Atlantic City considered plans today to employ a city "social secretary" to inveigle some high-toned boardwalk business away from Miami and Los Angeles. The successful candidate must be able to lend an authentic cloak to the business vulgarly known as publicity.

JUROR NO. 12 JAILED
NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 31—Juror No. 12 almost disrupted the trial of four men accused of beating to death Mrs. Mary Pezzillo. He got himself arrested on larceny charges after being sworn on the jury. Police said No. 12, who is Jacques Hickman, 24, used charge account cards that he found in a purse lost by Mrs. Wallace Stiles of Nutley to buy himself a new wardrobe. By agreement of counsel, a new juror was chosen to complete Hickman's jury duties.

BOY, 11, "SUSPICIOUS"
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(UP)—A police squad answered a telephone call from residents of the southeast section who reported a "suspicious acting" person examining parked cars. The officers captured the miscreant, age 11. He carried a toy pistol and a flashlight.

DOLLAR EIGHT YEARS OLD
SALEM, W. Va., Jan. 31—(UP)—Eight years ago Miss Kathleen Lowther enclosed a dollar-bill in an envelope and placed it in a dresser drawer. Her family rented their house and moved to Arkansas. MURDER UPSTAIRS

by ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 59
TWO DAYS later, I recovered consciousness in the hospital, with my left leg slung up by pulleys to the ceiling and a horrible ache in my head. A white-capped nurse was standing over me. She kept cautioning me to be quiet as she noticed my eyes flutter open, and I found after a minute or two that it was much better to be quiet as she advised.
My head hurt worse when I tried to talk, and even if I moved my fingers
my leg started throbbing.
"Your leg is broken, Mrs. Penny," she explained, "and you've also a fractured skull. Otherwise, you're all right."
Otherwise I was all right! Well, it was comforting to be alive, anyway.
I had that to be thankful for.
"There are bruises, too, but they'll go away quickly," she added.
Yes, I was conscious of the bruises. There wasn't a part of my body that felt well and whole and comfortable.
"Newspapers, please," I said.
"Sorry, but you can't have them until you're better."
"Will you tell me, then—"
"I can't tell you anything, Mrs.
Penny. You're to lie quietly, and not worry. Lieutenant Larrabee, who has been here a good deal during the last two days, said that as soon as you were conscious, I was to tell you that everything was all right."
"Can I see him now?"
It seemed I couldn't then, or for the next few days. Not until the doctor had given orders to permit visitors to see me. I was a sick woman, and it was lucky, they said,
I hadn't died from the skull fracture.
Miss Gladstone, the nurse, was efficient, patient, but for three days after I became conscious, she watched over me like a hawk, she and my night nurse. Not a scrap of newspaper reached my room, and although I kept begging for news of 462 Gardner street, I got none—not a morsel.
Miss Gladstone took her orders literally. At the end of the three days, she told me I could have my first caller, Lieutenant Larrabee.

The doctor had finally relented, and had agreed to a 15-minute call from the police officer. From what I had learned of Miss Gladstone, the visit wouldn't last a second longer than 15 minutes, either. She'd star. with a watch in her hand near the bed.
He came in quietly, and sat down
by my bedside.
"And you're much better today?"
was the first thing he asked.
My body didn't feel so sore, but my head still gave me a good deal of pain. The throbbing never seemed to stop. But I didn't want to talk about myself and waste precious minutes. I wanted to hear all the news. Every bit of it, from the time I'd tumbled down the back stairs,
and saved my life.
For a while, he ignored my questions. He wasn't to talk about the case as the doctor had said not to worry me with it. This was merely a short social call. I protested, weakly.
"Then you tell me why you went up those stairs with a bottle of kerosene," he demanded. "It's puzzled me."
"I went up to start a fire, knowing that Miss Cambridge knew I had the knife around my neck, tied by a string. I wanted her to try and steal it from me in the confusion that would follow an alarm."
"Well, I wondered. We couldn't figure that out."
"You got her?"
"We got her, and she's down the hall in this hospital, too, with one of her legs broken. Better off than you are because she hasn't a fractured skull."
"She confessed?"
"She didn't need to confess, Mrs.
Penny. She had the knife in her hand when we found her at the bottom of the stairs, and in another moment, even with her broken leg, she would have killed you."
She had a time getting it away from her. She won't say a thing
yet. We may not get her to confess, but it doesn't matter. We know,
thanks to you, Do you feel strong enough to tell me how you knew she was the murderer? If you don't, we can let it go until another day."

I felt strong enough for that.
"In the first place, there was that Monday night," I told him. "I went to the kitchen and found Marcella
Cambridge there drinking hot milk.
That was all right because she often does that. I didn't think anything of it. I had let Mr. Withers in, and when I saw her in the kitchen, she didn't ask me why I was downstairs!"
"Normally, that would be the first thing she would ask. You don't know her well enough to know her habits, but I do. She would have been curious about my visit downstairs at that hour of the night. I didn't think anything about that for some time, until after Mr. Darlene's funeral when I was in the phone booth, and then it came to me in a flash—that she hadn't been as curious as usual that Monday night."
"There were only two possible answers. Either she knew I had come down to let Mr. Withers in the front door, or she didn't dare to be too inquisitive because she was the mur-derer herself! Just that one little thing, failure to 'play her usual overwhelming curiosity, put me on the right track. Even when I read Marcella's letter to her mother about Marcella Cambridge's visit to her room at night, I didn't think it meant anything. Her curiosity is so habitually a part of her, that I didn't think anything about that visit."
"I had to stop for a while and rest. It was the first time I had attempted to talk at any length. When I was rested, I went back to work."
"When I finished talking with Dr.
Rudeman I stood in the phone booth
for a while to get my bearings, worrying about Lucy, when the thought suddenly hit me that Miss Cambridge would be annoyed at being kept waiting so long in the office of the undertaker."
"She would ask me where I'd been!
Now, do you understand my mental process? I suddenly remembered that she hadn't asked me Monday night why I'd come downstairs. So little to make her a murderer, but almost enough for me."

DIET AND HEALTH

Dry Heat of Home, Office Causes Colds, Nose Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A FRIEND of mine, whose business compels him to pass the entire summer in the bake oven of the middle west of the United States, says that he does not so much
mind the heat of summer as he does the heat of American houses in winter. He wishes summer
would come along so he could be cool.
I believe that this indicates
a serious preventable health problem in the United States
today. The temperature at which we keep our houses and office buildings in the winter must be the cause of the predominance of colds and nose affections, which everybody laments. It increases irritability and leads to insomnia, fatigue and neurasthenia.
Strictly speaking, it is not so much the temperature which is at fault as the ventilation. In other words, the absence of humidity and the lack of movement of air. Most of our houses and office buildings have been built on such an air-tight principle, with hollow tile and close fitting windows,
that it is impossible for a little fresh, moist air to circulate in. If we had the humidity and the movement of air ed, we could stand even higher temperatures than we now have. But the dry baking heat of anywhere between 70 and 80 takes all the moisture out of our skin, our nose and throat,

and our eyes.
Discrepancy in Dress
Added to this is the silly discrepancy in the clothes worn by American men and women. American women are badly underdressed for the winter time, and American men have gotten into the habit of changing into heavy clothes in the winter. An ordinary American winter business suit would easily stand a temperature of from 45 to 55, whereas, as a matter of fact, the man is placed in a temperature 20 to 30 degrees higher and is acutely uncomfortable. American winters are sufficiently mild over most of the country that a much lighter suit, with an overcoat adapted to outside wear, is sufficient for any man whose work is largely inside.
These things could be remedied with great benefit to health and comfort by equalizing the weight of men and women's clothing, letting a little outside air in every once in a while,
and even using an electric fan at a low speed to keep the air moving.
The lack of moving air is probably the most uncomfortable part of our winter ventilation scheme.

KILLING A LONG TRUMP
A LONG TRUMP is one left over after the remaining players have none. A long trump is a menace dreaded by declarer in case he can be forced to ruff often enough to give a defender one more trump than declarer. Notices may deem it magic to prevent an adverse long trump from winning a trick, but experts often kill an adverse long trump, by establishing a cross-ruff, as shown today.

Bidding went: South, 1-No Trump;
West, doubled; North, 2-Spades;
East, 3-Hearts; South, 3-Spades;
West, 4-Hearts, that; South doubled.
Dumny's Ace of spades killed South's K of that suit. Dumny's 6 of hearts and declarer's Q lost to South's Ace. Declarer ruffed a second lead of spades. Declarer and doubler now held equal hearts. Dum-ny was put in with its K of diamonds. A low club was returned.
The finessé of declarer's J lost to South's K. South led his last spade, and again forced declarer to ruff.
That left East one fewer trump than doubler held. Declarer had a seven-card problem to solve, requiring him to win six of the seven tricks yet unplayed. The holdings about the board are as shown below. See if you can win 6 tricks for declarer.

Lead declarer's last club. South must ruff. If he uses the J for that purpose he wins his third and last trick. If South ruffs low West will overruff. The K of trumps must win the next trick, and the thirteenth trick is the only one declarer will be able to add to their two tricks previously won. No matter how South struggles to make both his J and long trump good, he can win only one trick.

RADIO STOVE, NO FLAME, NO FIRE, NEAR REALITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—No flame, no fire but fast thorough cooking and tastier foods is the promise of the radio stove, soon to be a commercial fact.

The stove, now in its laboratory stage, generates its own radio waves which pass through the top of the stove, enter the food and cook it from the inside out. Water boils in a few minutes over the cold plates and meats and vegetables require only five minutes for cooking. Even cabbage has no odor on the radio stove.

Electric power for conversion into radio waves is obtained from the household lighting circuit. A Brooklyn manufacturer, interested in the development of the stove, bakes a truckload of bread in it daily.

Choose one of the new bright celanese crepes, or a colorful print. Complete. Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Youngster Makes Debut in "Family" in Week

Shelley, 4, Blonde and Resembling Shirley Temple, Become Star; Wendell Hall Has Splendid Collection

Shelley, four years old, blonde and cuddly, will make her debut in One Man's Family, one of the finer program on the radio, Wednesday at 8 p.m. She will play the role of Joan's daughter.

The youngster, who bears a marked resemblance to Shirley Temple, was discovered in the Holloway Playhouse, a San Francisco playhouse.

She reads readily at sight words of two and three syllables, memorizes easily and enunciates clearly. She is an only and doesn't care much for dolls, devoting her attention to mechanical toys, picture books, and Skippy, her pet.

Like Richard Svitus, her juvenile co star, the little girl has a big reading vocabulary for her age.

Wendell Hall, the red-headed musician who is heard tonight at 8:35 over NBC, owns one of the most rapidly growing private collections of music in America.

The songs, some of them published almost 100 years ago, have been coming from Hall's listeners uncollected. The rarest to reach the singer-composer thus far is a yellowed, do-eared volume of tunes published in 1842. Original copies of "Pretty as a Picture, copyright in 1877; "Dar's One More River to Cross" — the Great Jubilee Song" copyrighted in 1881, and "After the Ball", nearing an 1892 copyright, are other prize items.

Hall is preserving the musical antiques in a scrapbook.

A reason is seen for the building of Rudy Vallee is giving Frank Fay. It is this: the advertising agency that handles the Vallee show in addition to lots of other big plans to push Fay just as it did Bob Burns and Joe Penner with the idea of making him the master of ceremonies on a new show to hit the airways in a short time.

LINCOLN FOR GRID MEN AT BIG TEN SCHOOL PRUBED

Wisconsin Finds Another Problem Added; Meanwell Spears Before Regents

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 31—(UP)—Evidence that the University of Wisconsin football team which finished at the bottom of the Big Ten conference had been fed liquor by its officials threatened today to list it among the horrible examples cited by the W. C. T. U. It also threatened a wholesale housecleaning or drastic reorganization of the university athletic department.

Sooner or later someone is bound to call the matter to the attention of Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national president of the W. C. T. U., or her predecessor, Mrs. Ella Boole. Right now it is being thrown up to the university regents, investigating Wisconsin's athletic troubles.

Affidavits on File

Affidavits charging that Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach, ordered his players served coffee spiked with brandy or whiskey before major games were reliably reported in possession of the regents today.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, university athletic director, under questioning by the regents investigating committee, previously admitted that he gave drinks to two of the players.

School officials plagued in the past by Dora Russell advocating free love here and young communists on the campus being guaranteed free speech, thus had a new worry in free liquor for football players.

Wisconsin has been beset for years by football troubles. In 20 years as basketball coach before he gained the directorship which Spears also sought, Meanwell had 10 championship teams. Five different football coaches failed to win one title in the same period.

Meanwell was charged with interference. Too high scholastic standards were blamed for lack of good football material. Being from the "back" seemed to "rate" higher than fullback. Recently a faculty committee questioned Spears' coaching methods. And now the old college song about "Wisconsin, Where They Row" carries a double meaning—depending upon how you pronounce "row."

Captain Talks, too

John Golemeske, football captain-elect, accused Meanwell of prompting him to circulate a petition for ouster of Spears after the disastrous 1935 season. Meanwell also gave him a drink in mid-season, he added.

Dissatisfied with a faculty investigation which exonerated Meanwell, the regents who are political appointees and claim final powers in such matters, began their own inquiry. Spears is scheduled to testify Feb. 6, and the regents expect to decide what to do about it all by Feb. 14.

About This And That In Many Sports

Race Nearing Close

After tonight's games in the county loop only two weeks will remain before the close of the regular season with Ashville boys and Darby girls out in front—Ashville has yet to play Muhlenberg, Salt Creek, and Monroe and should have little trouble with either—Darby girls tangle with Deer Creek, Walnut, and New Holland providing a lot of opposition.

Tonight's Contests

Tonight's county loop contests include:

Darby at Deer Creek
Perry at Walnut
Jackson at New Holland
Washington at Pickaway
Ashville at Muhlenberg
Monroe at Salt Creek
Scioto is not scheduled in the county.

Travel to Westerville

Red and Black eagles are hopeful they will be able to knock off the big and fast Westerville team tonight—Chuck Styers has a cold and John Jenkin's foot is bothering him but both will be ready to go—The team, and the reserves, leave the high school at 5 o'clock in a bus.

Zaleski Invade County

Jackson-twp will have a "homecoming" Saturday evening when Bob Terhune's boys tangle with Zaleski, coached by John Florenza, Jackson-twp youth.

Deal Is Reported

A trade that may involve three National League teams is in the offing—It includes, reports say, an effort to Brooklyn to trade some outfielders to Pittsburgh for First Baseman Gus Suhr, then send Sam Leslie to New York for Catcher Ike Danning and Infielder Joe Martin.

QUAIL AS GAME-BIRD EXPLAINED BY DIVISION

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—Restoration of quail to the game-bird list in Ohio does not mean a statewide open season on quail, it was stated by the Division of Conservation today following newspaper reports from which farmers and others interested in welfare of the quail feared that such action would mean letting down the bars on quail protection in Ohio. The suggested plan does not contemplate disturbing the present song-bird status of the quail except on certain designated quail management areas.

Present legislation which keeps quail on the song-bird list in the opinion of the Division of Conservation contributes to law violations much in the same manner that prohibition contributed to violation of prohibition laws. Hunters in general and many farmers also who are not in sympathy with the status of quail as a "song-bird" continue to shoot them, especially in southern Ohio where there is no other form of wing shooting and no substitute for the quail as a game-bird.

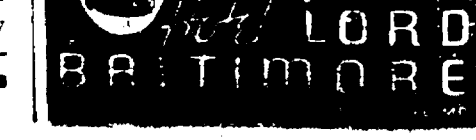

Recognizing the serious loss in the quail population due to severe winter weather and heavy snow and the lack of state aid or any definite quail management program, the Division of Conservation plans to set aside certain experimental areas on which quail can be propagated in the wild for the purpose of building up the number of quail.

Courageous Athlete

IN recognition of the game fight put up by Charley Gelbert, St. Louis Cardinals' shortstop, after being seriously wounded in a hunting accident two years ago, Philadelphia sports writers presented him with a trophy as the "most courageous athlete of 1935." Gelbert, shown holding the trophy, now is back in the game as good as ever.

MARIETTA SEEKS ASHLAND SCALP

Unbeaten Team Hopeful; Wesleyan Wins Rough Fray

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—(UP)—Marietta college, the unbeaten leader of the Ohio conference, seeks its seventh consecutive league victory tonight when it meets Ashland at Marietta.

The contest headlines a six game program involving state teams. Although it has lost the services of Clyde Young, its starling sophomore guard, Marietta is still an exceptionally well balanced quintet and Coach Frank Hayes' combine remains the favorite to succeed Baldwin-Wallace as the conference champion.

Ohio Wesleyan, the defending Buckeye conference champion, won its second game of the season from Baldwin-Wallace, the Ohio conference ruler, 32 to 21 last night at Delaware. A free throw in the final five seconds of play by Clovis Stark provided Wesleyan with its margin of victory.

The contest was a rough and tumble affair from start to finish and out of the control of the officials most of the way.

With five minutes of the last half remaining, Johnny Zak, Wesleyan forward, and Bud Haerr, Baldwin-Wallace guard, exchanged blows in mid-court. The fight started a free-for-all and play was halted for several minutes while the court was cleared. Zak and Haerr were ejected.

The University of Cincinnati, Buckeye conference leader, was beaten 41 to 32 by Akron Good-year at Akron. It was the Bearcats second loss of the season to the Akron five.

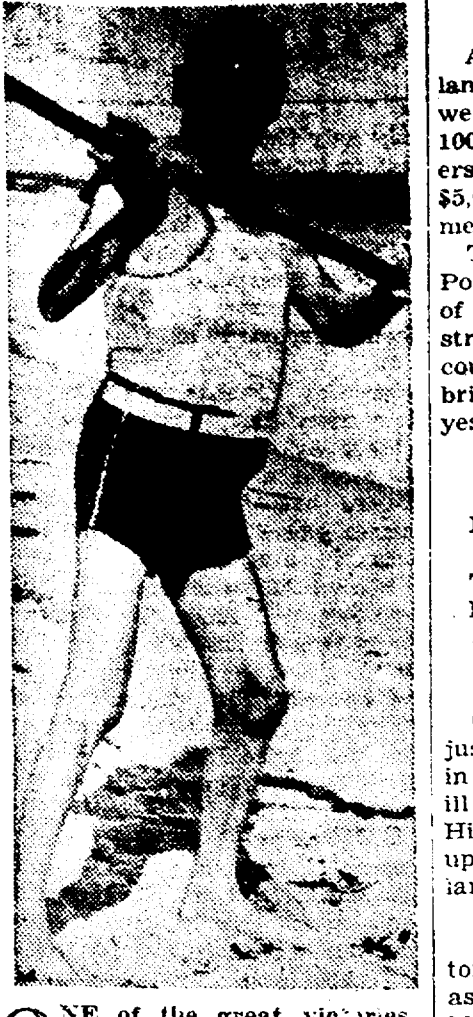

In the only other game last night Otterbein downed Wilmington 53 to 35.

CANZONERI IS VICTOR THROUGH TECHNICAL K. O.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31—(UP)—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Toots Bashara, of Norfolk, Va., in the third round of a scheduled 10-round non-title bout at the Olympia last night.

Referee Mat Adgie, stopped the bout after Canzoneri opened an inch-long gash over Bashara's left eye.

Joe Is "Winnah!"

ONE of the great victories of the year is scored by Joe Humphries, horn-voiced announcer of the prize ring who often has proclaimed "the winnah" of championship fights. Joe is pictured at Lake Worth, Fla., recuperating from illness which almost had him out.

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Jan. 31—(UP)—Two western pros today led more than 100 of America's outstanding golfers into the second round of the $5,000 Catalina open golf tournament with par-shattering 60's.

The leaders, Ted Longworth of Portland, Ore., and Fred Morrison of Pasadena, Calif., clipped six strokes from the tricky island course par as they shot steady, brilliant golf in the first round yesterday.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Otto Gray, owner and originator of one of the greatest attractions of radio and stage, arrived in town about noon with his entire organization of Oklahoma cowboys, causing traffic to come to a standstill with his specially built traveling cars.

Traveling in their custom-built caravan of costly motor coaches, the cowboys attracted much attention on the streets. Three of the nine cars and coaches which transport Mr. Gray's famous troupe are now on display in front of the Cliftona Theater, where the cowboys will be the feature stage attraction the first half of this week.

Otto Gray and his Cowboys will be at the theater today and tomorrow, appearing at all matinee and night performances, in addition to the outstanding screen attraction "Annie Oakley," the strange story of a lovely woman who was the most deadly rifle shot living, man or woman, with Barbara Stanwyck in the title

Forecaster Believes Frigid Weather to Be Gone Before Start of Week

After a 48-hour respite from sub-zero temperatures, Circleville and Ohio fell back into the grip of a cold wave Friday.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was officially reported at six degrees below zero. Residents of various sections gave unofficial readings as low as 10 degrees below.

High wind Thursday night blew drifts back on numerous roads throughout the county but no conditions comparable to last week's storm were reported.

Roads 56 Blocked
State highway workers were called to the Route 56 near the Salt Creek township school where a drift blocked the road. The worst conditions were in roads on which one-way traffic was maintained through drifts formed last week.

County workers cleared drifts on the Kingston-pk and were checking other roads. All state roads were reported cleared at noon.

W.P.A. projects, opened Wednesday after a shutdown caused by last week's weather, were closed again Friday.

W. H. Alexander, state meteorologist, however, predicted the current wave would not be extended as the state's last one, which "broke" Wednesday after eight days' duration.

The forecast for tonight was for fair and continued cold. Indications were Saturday would be continued fair with slowly rising temperatures. Alexander said Ohioans could expect a return of normal temperatures in the mid-twenties by early next week.

been made to pay the bonus from unexpended but allocated relief funds, the president observed such a procedure would let people starve.

He added that consideration was being given the question of determining the status of veterans now on relief rolls after they receive their bonus payments.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked his opinion regarding passage by congress of bills designed for financial relief for companies and individuals having claims before the government.

Defense Removed
Replying, the president observed that most of his vetoes have been on claim bills because the bills remove the government defense against such suits.

The condition of Mrs. Lewis Jenkins, Watt-st., remains about the same. She has been in a serious condition in Berger hospital the past few days.

The Primary department of the Presbyterian Sunday school will not convene this Sunday morning because of the cold weather.

HATCHERIES TURN OUT CHICKS FOR 'SPECIALS'

Baby chickens have the jump on spring this year.

Cromman's hatchery on the Lancaster-pk reported 2,000 new arrivals Wednesday and the Southern Ohio hatchery, Water-st., had about 1,000 on hand. These exceptionally early hatchings are special orders.

Both hatcheries will soon be swinging into high gear turning out about 33,000 baby chickens a week.

STATE WITNESS IN JERSEY CASE MAY FACE JURY

was kidnapped. He testified that he saw Hauptmann driving a motor car near the Lindbergh home just before the kidnapping and said Hauptmann had a ladder with him. Fisher brought formally into the open a suspicion long publicized, that Hochmuth is so nearly blind that he could not have seen what he purported to have seen.

It was doubtful that Hauptmann would receive Fisher's letter immediately, for he planned to leave today for a two-weeks vacation in Florida.

"If anything important comes up, though, I'll return immediately," he promised when informed of Fisher's action.

Might Win Re-trial

Hauptmann might be saved from death indefinitely if Hochmuth were indicted for perjury. Hauptmann's counsel probably would obtain an order from Judge Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at his trial, to suspend execution of the sentence until Hochmuth could be tried. Conviction of a major eye-witness on perjury charges might win Hauptmann a new trial.

Governor Hoffman, Hauptmann's best friend at court since he entered the death house, sent a long list of questions to Schwartzkopf about the case and demanded weekly reports in writing of his progress toward answering them.

"I am impressed by the evident anxiety of so many people to hurry him (Hauptmann) to his death when too many questions are still unanswered which he may help to solve," Hoffman wrote.

"There is evidence, abundant evidence, that other persons participated in the crime, and there is absolutely no reason why our law enforcement agencies should regard the case as closed."

Questions the governor listed as important and unanswered included many raised by testimony of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon. Lindbergh now is in England and Condon in South America. Probably only their return and submission to interrogation could answer Hoffman's questions.

Still Hints Inside Aid

In questions about the suicide of Violet Sharpe, maid in the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's parents, and about discovery of the kidnapped baby's shiny and unrusty guard near the Lindbergh estate gate long after the crime, Hoffman plainly inferred that he had not abandoned a belief that the kidnapers had "inside" help. The thumb guard was found by Betty Gow, the baby's nurse.

"Could Hauptmann have possibly returned from the Bronx to throw this thumb guard or was it an accomplice, inside or outside the home?" The governor asked. "It seems impossible to believe that this article had been permitted to lie there during a one-month period."

Hoffman said that Lindbergh, Condon, Schwartzkopf and others had indicated belief that a gang perpetrated the kidnapping and that he considered the conviction of Hauptmann, in consequence, a detail of the case that left it far from closed.

paid to the state out of subsequent county relief bond issues, backed by the proceeds of the one per cent excise tax on public utilities.

The remaining $8,500,000 for direct grants to the counties is to be allocated partly on a basis of population and partly on the basis of local relief expenditures in the earlier half of 1935. It comprises $4,500,000 from sales tax revenues and $4,000,000 from the state's general fund.

This method of distribution was insisted on by the senate, against a house plan of distributing the money on a basis of needs of the individual counties.

Counties will be permitted to spend 24 per cent of their total in January, 22 per cent in February, 18 per cent in March, 12 per cent in April, 10 per cent in May, and 7 per cent in June and July each.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, has taken the lead from Sen. William E. Borah in the state presidential poll conducted by the Ohio Federation of Republican clubs, George H. Bender, president, revealed today.

Revised ratings showed Gov. Alf Landon leading the Idaho senator by nearly 300 votes, 3,210 to 2,935. Borah had been in front in earlier returns, the last previous release showing him with 1,478 votes to Landon's 1,301.

Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, continued in third place with 2,714 votes.

DILLINGER'S SWEETHEART LEAVES FOR RESERVATION

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Evelyn Frechette, erstwhile sweetheart of John Dillinger, was en route to her former home on the Shawano, Wis., Indian reservation today, determined to "be a lady."

Smartly dressed and wearing smoked glasses, the pretty Indian girl stopped here between trains after being released from the federal women's prison at Milan, Mich. She took the pauper's oath before being released on parole after serving two years on a charge of harboring Dillinger.

"It's good to be free," she said. "And I'm going to be good. The federal men said they'd send me back to prison if I don't act like a lady."

CHARLES WEST KEEPS JOB

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—House Democrats, by a vote of 62 to 13, yesterday rejected a Republican proposal to abolish the office of undersecretary of interior Charles West, White House liaison agent with congress. West is formerly of Granville, O.

tained he slashed Loeb 56 times with a razor in self-defense.

The political significance of the prison scandal was found in demands of Democrats opposed to Gov. Horner and of Republican leaders for a "wide open probe."

Attorney General Otto Kerner, seeking renomination on the Democratic slate opposed to Horner, announced that if Mc-

Cabe's inquiry is not searching enough he personally will take charge of the investigation.

The Chicago Herald and Examiner carried a leading editorial today demanding that Gov. Horner "immediately suspend all of the state prison authorities who have anything to do directly or indirectly with Stateville prison at Joliet."
